How much does it cost per meter to install a fiber optic pigtail

Overview

Discover the average fiber optic cable installation cost, including key factors that impact pricing, and learn how to budget for your home project.

Key Takeaways

The cost of a fiber optic pigtail typically ranges from $2 to $10 per meter, depending on fiber type, connector, and vendor. Fiber optic pigtails are pre-terminated fiber cables used for splicing or connecting optical networks. The price per meter varies based on several factors: 1.

Fiber Type: Single-mode (SM) pigtails are generally more expensive than multimode (MM) due to lower attenuation and higher precision requirements.

S

M pigtails can cost around $3–$10 per meter, while MM pigtails are usually $2–$6 per meter. 2. Connector Type: Common connectors include LC, SC, ST, and FC.

L

C connectors are compact and widely used, often slightly more expensive than SC or ST.

C (angled physical contact) connectors are more costly than UPC (ultra physical contact) due to better return loss performance. 3. Vendor and Quality: Vendors like FS, Cables for Less, Amazon, and eBay offer a range of pigtails with different quality standards and testing (e.g., IL & RL testing for FS pigtails).

Industrial-grade pigtails with 100% end-face inspection and low insertion loss are priced higher than basic consumer-grade options. 4. Length and Packaging: Pigtails are often sold in standard lengths (1 m, 2 m, 3 m).

Buying in bulk or longer lengths may reduce the per-meter cost. Protective packaging, such as shrink sleeves for fusion splicing, can slightly increase the price. Summary: For budgeting purposes, expect $2–$10 per meter, with single-mode, APC, or high-quality tested pigtails at the higher end.

For exact pricing, check vendor listings for the specific fiber type, connector, and length you need.
