Key Takeaways

A complete electrical distribution box in Slovakia typically costs between €300 and €1,500 for residential units, with larger or industrial panels reaching €2,500–€5,000 depending on capacity and features.

Residential Distribution Boxes

For a standard apartment or single-family home, a residential distribution box with 12–24 modules usually costs around €300–€600, including basic circuit breakers, RCDs, and professional installation. Larger homes requiring 36–48 modules may range from €600–€1,200, while very large or high-end residential setups can reach €1,500. Installation labor typically accounts for 30–40% of the total cost, and additional materials like wiring, switches, and protective devices can increase the price.

Commercial and Industrial Panels

Commercial or industrial distribution boxes are more expensive due to higher capacity, three-phase systems, and advanced safety features. Prices for these units in Slovakia can range from €2,500 to €5,000, depending on the number of modules (72-104 or more), material quality (steel or stainless steel), and integrated monitoring or smart control systems. Customization, outdoor weatherproofing, and energy management features can further increase costs.

Factors Affecting Price

Material of the enclosure: Plastic, powder-coated steel, or stainless steel significantly affects cost. Internal components: High-quality circuit breakers, surge protectors, and busbars add to the price. Installation complexity: Retrofitting older buildings or adding extra circuits can increase labor costs by 15-20%.

Future-proofing: Planning for additional modules or smart monitoring can raise upfront costs but reduce long-term upgrades.

Local Suppliers

Slovakian suppliers offer a range of affordable power distribution panels, with options for both standard and customized solutions. It is recommended to request quotes from multiple local manufacturers to account for installation, certification, and warranty services. In summary, residential distribution boxes in Slovakia generally cost €300-€1,500, while commercial or industrial panels can reach €2,500-€5,000, with final pricing influenced by capacity, materials, installation, and additional features.
