Key Takeaways

Electrical distribution boxes in Tuvalu typically range from $50 to $500 USD depending on size, modules, and material, with exact prices available from local suppliers.

Overview of Pricing

The cost of a complete electrical distribution box depends on several factors: Size and number of modules: Small residential boxes (e.g., 12–18 modules) are generally less expensive, while larger commercial or industrial boxes (36–54 modules) cost more. Material and build quality: Plastic enclosures are cheaper, whereas metal or high-durability boxes designed for harsh environments are more expensive. Features: Boxes with transparent doors, interlockable mechanisms, or specialized mounting options may increase the price.

Shipping and import costs: Tuvalu imports most electrical equipment, so shipping fees and customs duties can significantly affect the final price. Based on international examples, small to medium residential boxes can cost around $50–$150 USD, while larger commercial boxes may range from $200–$500 USD. Prices in Tuvalu may be slightly higher due to import logistics and limited local suppliers.
