Their products reduce construction costs and support faster installation. Chalfant Manufacturing: Offers high-quality cable tray systems with self-connecting options, tailored solutions, and over 70 years of experience in the industry. Eaton (Cooper Crouse-Hinds division): Provides cable trays, ladders, raceways, and electrical connectors for industrial, commercial, and residential applications, meeting strict North American standards.

Legrand: A global leader in electrical infrastructure, offering cable trays, raceways, and accessories for construction, telecommunications, and energy sectors.

Additional Options

Other notable manufacturers and distributors include Panduit, Excellerate, Southwire, SILTEC, Basor, and Selco Manufacturing, which provide a variety of materials such as galvanized steel, aluminum, stainless steel, and fiberglass reinforced plastic (FRP) for different environmental and load requirements. Many of these companies also offer custom fabrication, engineering support, and bulk purchasing options, making them suitable for large-scale projects.

Considerations for Wholesale Procurement

Material and Finish: Choose based on load capacity, corrosion resistance, and environmental exposure (e.g., indoor, outdoor, chemical-resistant). Compliance: Ensure products meet UL, CSA, and NEMA standards for safety and durability. Customization: Many manufacturers provide custom sizes, rung spacing, and tray configurations.

Distribution and Logistics: Consider manufacturers with nationwide shipping and support for large orders. For a comprehensive list of U. S. cable tray manufacturers, resources like CableTrayFab's Top 50 list and ThomasNet supplier directory provide detailed company profiles, product types, and contact information.
